the subject of peace. [From the Richmond Dispatch, Sept. 20.] There is no mistaking the object of Sherman in desiring to hold a conference with Vice President Stephens and Gov. Brown. It is to detach the State of Georgia, if possible, from the Confederacy, through the agency of these two gentlemen, whom, from their course with egard to the hebeas corpus act and other regard to the habeas corpus act and other measures, he takes to be at heart well disposed to promote such a measure. We are confident that he will find himself disappointed in his estimation of these two gentlemen, yet we very much regret that they should ever have advocated any line of policy which a Yackee General can by any possibility thus interpret.

STEAMER BEN STICKNEY, Sept. 28d, 1861.

At a meeting of the passengers, Colonel T. H. Barrett, Sixty-second U. S. C. I. was called to the chair, and Dr. A. J. Howe acted as secretary.

A committee of five was appointed to draft reschilons expressive of the sense of the meeting, who reported the following:

The undersigned, in behalf of the passengers on the steamer Ben Stickney on her first trip from New Orleans to Caire, desire to express their lively satisfaction at the enjewment they have had while on board, which has been the result of perfect order and discipline, elegant fare and fine boat equipments. It is therefore.

Readred, That the thanks of the passengers behereby tendered to Capitain E. A. Sheble, the kind, gentlemanly, and efficient commander, who, by every means in his power, has endeavored to make the trip agreeable and satisfactory; who, by perfect discipline and anxious care in every respect, has made the journey prosperous throughous. We look upon him as a Captain deserving the confidence of the public, as he is unsurpassed in efficiency of discipline by any etcamboat officer in our acquaintance.

Readred, That our thanks be hereby tendered to

A PIG IN THE FENCE.

Did you never observe, when a plg in the fence Sends forth his most pittful shout, How all of his neighbors betake themselves then To punish him are he gets out? What a hubbub they raise, so that others afar May know his condition, and hence Come running to join them in adding a scar To the pig that is fast in the fence!

Well, swine are not all the creatures that be
Who find themselves sticking between
The ralls of the fence, and who strive to get free, White the world is still showing them in;
Who find that the favor they meet with depends
Not on worth, but on dollare and ceute;
And 'its ladeed few that prove themselves friend
To the pig that is fast in the fence.

Atlanta an Absurd and Worthless Place (From the Richmond Fxaminer) Atlanta was never a strategic point, so robe of white tulle, with the imperlal manmuch as a point of honor. It was onee, to be sure, called the "Gate City;" but that bright as really to dazzle the eyes; the fagate had long been off its hinges, and is mous "regent," the most splendid of the one of those "passages that lead to nothing." crown diamonds of France, blazing like a Atlanta was a sort of a place which would little sun just over her brow. FIGHT BETWEEN TWO GIRLS AT CHURCH .-The St. Joseph (Missouri) llerald, of July 29th, tells this story:

On last Sabbath, while church was being held about six miles north of Albany, Gentry county, a party of the militia entered the place to secure horses with which to enter the service under the call of Gen. Fisk. A Union girl promptly came forward and placed her horse at the service of the boys, and also pointed out to them another fine steed, which she remarked was the property of a Secessionist lady friend of hers. A traband," and was about to leave with him, when the lady owner made her appearance and protested against giving him up.

The Union girl urged the soldier to go nlong; she had voluntarily contributed her house, and insisted that the Secesh horse should also do duty. At this the rebel girl applied all sorts of opprobrious epithels to the "uion girl, who in turn became angry and knocked her opponent flat on the ground, and then jumped upon her and pounded away at a terrille rate. Dr. Willis, of that vicinity, parted the Amazons, but there didn't in the control of the control o but they didn't stey parted, and were soon fighting each other again, accompanying their blows with acreams of defiance. Their gay funday dresses were soon in shreds ng, beautiful tresses of heir were mixed blood from dainty neres, etc. The crewit, despoiring of putting an end to the fat, formed a circle, and scated themselves to en'ny the exhibition in regular prize ring style. The combatants fought long and well, until Miss Union seized Miss Seees's by the throat, when she fell to the ground and gave up haule. The parties

And without you should not omit to pay some attention to the study of attitudes. Assume the best posture for preserving your "gravity ln a state of stability," while at the same time seek to avoid a straddle, as if you were on the deck of a rolling steamer, otherwise you may be animadverted on by the company. You must not feel annoyed if, just as you have suceeded in cutting up the chieken and ham in nice little bits, and have relinquished the knife for the fork, a jolt from behind listurb the direction a mouthful is taking, and sends it outside your shirt-front instead o lnside. Neither must you be irritated at feeling that some one is pouring a plateful of gravy down your back. I upset a glass of wine over a young gentleman's legs (an elderly man of stout basis, who humped against me, was the cause), and I am ashamed to say that I looked hard in another direction, as if I knew nothing about the matter. Another piece of advice I would venture to auggest-especially if you dislike using dirty forks-is that you keep a tight hold of your

Forks are always at a premium, and 1 you put yours down for one moment, you'll never see it again. I cannot suggest the modest stranger's doing anything better with his wine-glass than putting it in his pocket when not in immediate use; for I am convinced that not one of the ladies or gentlemen present drank out of the same

After d'uner which was over about slx the gentlemen strolled into the grounds smoke. The ladies don't at all object to the smell of the fragrant weed, and nearly all the elerry indulge ln it. You can judge for yourself, when I inform you that in 1855, when the population concinted of 1,490,017 souls—I like exactitude—the Imports of tobacco amounted to about 3, 200,000 pounds; which gives an allowance of two rounds and a quarter to each soul, not inducting women or children. One gentleman to whom I was introduced informed me that he always had a smoke the last thing at night, after he got into bed, and, from some incidental remarks he made, I discovered that he was a married man, and occupied the same apartments with his wife. Cigars, coffee, and its attendant Curacoa, having been duly appreciated, we returned to the house and danced till twelve o'clock. And, though the party had thus lasted eight hours, it had been throughout an uncommonly pleasant one, and the time passed very quickly. THE MOCKING BIRD .- We see in the Country Gentleman, of July 14th, a communication from Edgar Sanders, of Chleago, stating that a pair of mocking birds have taken up be will feel so heavenly, that he won't get down to pork and beans again till the latter part of the week.'

that a pair of mocking birds have taken up their aboile in his garden, and are building a nest, &c. He asks if it is a rare thing to see them so far North? Mr. Sanders is undonbtedly mistaken about their being the well-known Southern mocking bird. number of birds.
